BUTLER THREAT TO "BUST" POLICEMEN WAS CARRIED OUT

MAYOR APPROVES

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11 (INS).—A lone "leather-neck" stood out today as victor over Philadelphia's super-political machine.

Smiles wreathed the face of Gen. Smokey Butler He, as director of Public Safety, had "busted" Johnny Mullen and Lieut. John Duffy. The powers that be gasped in astonishment.

"How long will 'Busting Butler' last?" was the question asked on every hand.

Never before in Philadelphia's 26 years of police politics had a director of Safety dared to so much as "look crooked" at the two Johns. Duffy, it was explained, was Czar of "Vareldom"—the home ward of Congressman Wm. Vare, maker and breaker of Mayors. Mullen ruled the district attributed to Charles Hall, President of the City Council.

Butler without ever mentioning the matter to Vare or Hall demoted both Duffy and Mullen, informed both that if they wished to continue as police they must become plain patrolmen, surrendering their Lieutenant's shields within five days.

Kendrick Stands Pat

Duffy stormed. Mullen swore. Both visited Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick. Somebody notified Bill Vare in Washington. His office supplied the information that Vare was on his way to Philadelphia.

"I can't interfere—Butler is in command," was Kendrick's only comment.

Just before Gen. Butler turned in at midnight he said:

"I busted Duffy and Mullen because I believed they did not show the proper spirit. Both were reported to have taken their days off during the 48 hours vice drive. However I have been informed both men were actually on duty walking their districts checking up on men."

Butler did not reveal the source of his information. He would not confirm or deny that he had learned this in the Mayor's private office. On his tour of inspection he had been informed neither Duffy nor Mullen was on duty. At that time Butler did not know that such a district as "Vareldom" existed.

"Well, if Duffy and Mullen were on duty, of course their suspensions will not stand," Butler admitted.

Police were less active today. General Butler estimated 80 per cent of the vice, bootlegging and crime in the city had been "cleaned" up.

He turned his attention to the city's traffic problem today. Bandits appeared to have taken warning of Gen. Butler's activities. For the first time this year a night passed without a holdup. Ten robberies were reported—one third of the nightly average for the first ten days of the month. The loot was less than $1,000.

PROMINENT MANUFACTURER OF CANTON HELD FOR DEATH OF GIRL FOUND DEAD ALONG LONELY ROAD

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 11. (INS).—Louis E. Griffith, president of the United Machine & Mfg. Co., was charged with first degree murder here this morning in connection with the death of pretty 19-year-old Ruth Hunter. Bond was not furnished at once and the prisoner was remanded to jail.

Filing of the charge against the wealthy manufacturer brings to a climax a mystery which has baffled police since Wednesday when the pretty little Canton girl was found dead on the Richville-Reed urban road near this city.

Cleveland Girl Who Disappeared Is Found At Her Grandmother's

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 11. (INS).—Wilma Lowman, 16, believed to have been kidnapped when she failed to report at St. Joseph's Academy, Titusville, Pa., is safe at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Josephine Graham, Mingo Junction, Pa., her father, George Graham, said here this morning.

The girl's mother is dead, and the father wanted her to attend school at Titusville, but she rebelled and when sent back Sunday took the train to Mingo Junction instead. A message was received by the father from the grandmother late yesterday and Graham left to bring his daughter back to Cleveland and put her in school here.

BORAH CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE WHICH CONSIDERS RUSS RECOGNITION

Washington, Jan. 11 (INS).—Senator Wm. E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, the champion of Russian recognition in the Senate, will be chairman of the Senate Committee that is to conduct a thorough inquiry covering every phase of the Russian situation it was announced here today.

The other members of the committee are:

Lenroot of Wisconsin, and Pepper, of Pennsylvania, Republicans; and Swanson of Virginia, and Pittman, of Nevada, Democrats.

CAN'T TELL WHAT THESE PHILIPBURGERS WILL DO

A Ford touring car bearing a 1922 Pennsylvania license, No. 225-063, and a Philadelphia name plate, came to much grief at "Dead Man's Curve" on South Second street some time last night, after 10 o'clock.

The driver was coming down the river something less than 408 miles an hour, judging from the condition of the wrecked car, a Ford. At any rate he was hitting a pace entirely too fast for the turn and the car crashed into the curb and hopped over, landing four or five feet beyond the road on the lawn of Roll B. Thompson, badly wrecking the machine.

Other crimes will also go," Gen. Butler predicted.

Vare Comments.
Philadelphia, Jan. 11. (INS).—Congressman Wm. S. Vare arrived here today from Washington. It is reported he plans important conferences with Mayor Kendrick and disgruntled leaders who have been badly beset by Gen. Butler in his vice crusade.

All Mr. Vare would say when asked about the Butler situation was:

"Why should I talk political business? I'm a congressman, not a cop."

J. Wesley Gearhart, of West Chester, father of Mrs. W. W. Wrigley, who underwent a serious operation at the Clearfield Hospital several days ago, is recovering very satisfactorily at this time, his many friends will be pleased to know.

FIND BODY IN THE CHANNEL BELIEVED TO BE LT. SPERRY

Rye, England, Jan. 11 (INS).—A decomposed body believed to be that of Lawrence Sperry, missing American aviator was picked up in the English channel off this port today.

The trousers are similar to those worn by Sperry when his airplane fell into the Channel five weeks ago.

CHARGE MICHIGAN MAN WITH STARVING HIS SEVEN CHILDREN

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 11. (INS).—A warrant charging William C. Mooney, Mona Lake tent dweller, with manslaughter in connection with the deaths during the last 11 years of seven of the ten children born to him and Mrs. Mooney will be asked today, according to authorities. Mooney's arrest followed complaint by his wife that he had caused the death of his children by neglecting to provide food and clothing. Maxine, a five-week-old daughter, and a twin sister have died since Christmas.

"My babies cried for food," Mrs. Mooney told officers, "and at last when I could stand their cries no longer I began to give them condensed milk the neighbors had given me. I gave them each five teaspoons full once and my husband struck me for it."

Mooney is employed at a local foundry. He earns $35 a week, his wife said.

FIREMEN TO ATTEND DIVINE SERVICES ON SUNDAY EVENING

The Clearfield Fire Department will go to the Sunday evening service at the church against the devil and all his works.

It is the custom of the volunteer firemen of the State to go to church at least once a year, many of whom enjoy just that rare treat, at which time their annual memorial sermon is preached by the pastor of the church designated for the service.

This year St. Andrew's Episcopal church has been selected and the sermon will be preached by the pastor, the Rev. Richard Allen Hatch. The date selected for the annual memorial sermon is that Sunday nearest to the birthday of that most illustrious and pioneer volunteer fireman the late lamented Benjamin Franklin. The Clearfield Fire Department has a membership of about three hundred men. Keep your eye on the calendar which leaves No. 1 hose house Sunday evening next and see for yourself just how many firemen there are who can't even make it to church once a year.

Mr. Russell Brown returned to his home in Toledo, Iowa, after visiting his sister Mrs. A. E. Leasure.

Lucine and Betty Claire Waterhouse are confined to their South Second street home by attacks of diphtheria.

FALLS CREEK BOY OF EIGHTEEN HAMMERS MOTHER TO DEATH

Whole Community Has
Been Shocked By Cool
Confession Made After
Days of Mystery.

A HORRIBLE CRIME

DuBois, Pa., Jan. 10.—One of the most dastardly crimes ever committed in this section was uncovered yesterday afternoon, when Homer E. Senior, the 18-year-old son of Mrs. H. G. Senior, the woman who received injuries which resulted in her death last Friday afternoon, confessed to the murder of his mother before Sergeant Thomas F. Martin and Private Charles E. Stacy, of the Butler detachment of the Pennsylvania state police. The police had been working diligently on the case since last Monday afternoon, when it was decided that Mrs. Senior had met death at the hands of some unknown party, and while each day some evidence was gathered, the police kept the affair quiet until the confession was made.

The family lives near Falls Creek. It will be remembered that the first announcement of the death of Mrs. Senior stated that death had been caused as the result of a fall, but neither the attending physicians nor the family were satisfied with this explanation, so Coroner W. G. Gatti, of Jefferson county, was called into the case, and in a post mortem examination, determined that Mrs. Senior had met death at the hands of an unknown party. From the start the son was suspected of having committed the crime, but the evidence gathered was not sufficient to cause his arrest until yesterday.

According to the officers who arrested the lad, it is believed that he is at times demented, and they believe that it was during one of these spells that he committed the crime, not really realizing what he was doing.

Following the clues which had been developed, the officers yesterday brought the young man to DuBois and after a grueling which lasted a large portion of the day, finally secured a confession from him, and taking the murderer to the scene of the murder, asked him to explain his actions when he killed his mother. The boy related the crime before the officers and a number of prominent residents of Falls Creek.

According to the story of the lad, his mother had been scolding him constantly for nearly a month before the day of the crime. It appears that the lad had many failings which were grievous to his mother, and in her method of correcting him, a constant nagging had angered him to the extent he was willing to do anything to get away from it. It is believed the scoldings worked the lad up to the breaking point, and he finally worried himself into committing the crime.

According to those who are well acquainted with the family, the lad had committed numerous minor wrongs which were not in accord with the wishes of his mother, and he had for some time been a source of unlimited worry to her.

The murder was committed last Tuesday afternoon, at a time when no other members of the family were in the home. The lad and his father had been working at the barn. Leaving the barn some ten or fifteen minutes before his parent, the boy made his way to the house. It was necessary for him to pass a woodshed on his way to the house, and he entered this, procuring a sledge hammer. Then

HOPE FOR SAFETY OF ENGLISH SUB CREW ABANDONED

London, Jan. 11 (INS).—Advises received by the Admiralty today indicated that the submarine L-24 which was rammed by the dreadnaught Resolution off Portland during maneuvers, was cut in two.

Hope for the safety of the 43 men aboard has been abandoned.

Salvage ships reported to the Admiralty they believed they had located the wreck of the L-24 in the thirty fathoms of water ten miles off Portland.

Owing to rough water divers were not able to descend from the salvage ships to examine the wreckage.

Immigration Bill To Be Reported Out Is Based On 1890 Alien Census

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS).—American legislation will be reported from the House immigration committee next week under present plans, it was announced today by Congressman Cable, Republican of Ohio.

The legislation will be restrictive and selective, said Cable. Immigration will be 100 per cent of the 1900 census of the United States and about 500,000 per year from northern and southern Europe.

PENNA. CONGRESSMEN BUTT IN TO PREVENT THE N. Y. C. TAKING OVER PHILADELPHIA & READING

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS).—Resolutions asking the Interstate Commerce Commission not to approve the consolidation of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad with either the Baltimore and Ohio or the New York Central were adopted today by the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress. It was proposed that the P. and R. be left independent in any consolidation, although both the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central want to take it over.

That Missed Yesterday Diphtheria Prevention Treatment For Children Can Be Taken Any Time

Something over a hundred little folk from a few months old to six years old answered present at the Red Cross rooms yesterday afternoon to be immunized from diphtheria in response to the offer of the State of Pennsylvania to do this work free.

The staff of doctors, nurses and volunteer aids were right on the job and within a couple of hours all of the over one hundred visitors to the office had been cared for and sent home happy.

The Red Cross nurses are very anxious that every child of this community under the age of six years receive this free treatment and they expect that the dread disease of diphtheria will not be as frequent a visitor to Clearfield hereafter if the offer is taken advantage of. Over three hundred signed the slips when they passed around but only a few over a hundred presented their children yesterday. Now, what a dreadful thing it would be if diphtheria should attack one of these children who lost the opportunity to be fortified against the invader of the disease.

The Progress asked the nurses today if the time was passed for free treatment and they said it was not. They will be glad to immunize any children brought to the Red Cross rooms by their parents. The rooms are open daily from one to two o'clock.

The next regular inoculation will be next Thursday afternoon at which time those who received the first treatment will be expected to come back for the second. First treatments will also be given at this time so do not neglect to attend to this duty to your children.

BREAKING FLYWHEEL FATALLY INJURES SAW MILL LABORER

Struck on the head when the flywheel of the sawmill he was operating broke and was sent spinning through the air, Marshall Lee Iselt, 53 years old, was almost instantly killed about 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

The accident occurred on the Christian Albright land in Sinking Valley, about six miles from Tyrone. Iselt had been working only a short while before the wheel burst.

He was dead before other employees at the mill, who hurried to his assistance, could summon medical aid.

Iselt, who was unmarried, lived with his brother, Hayes Iselt, on a farm in Sinking Valley and for some time had been engaged in farming. He was at one time a teacher in the public schools of Tyrone township and was a nephew of A. Lee Fleck, for twelve years a Blair county director of the poor.

Coroner C. C. Rothrock was not notified of the accident until shortly after noon yesterday and consequently postponed making an investigation until this morning.

Iselt was born on June 2, 1870, the son of David W. Iselt and Mary A. Fleck. He was a member of the Sinking Valley Lutheran church and agent in Sinking Valley for the Williamsburg Mutual Fire Insurance company. He was well known throughout all of Sinking Valley.

Curwensville Native Is Elected Cashier Of The Muncy National Bank

The officers of the Citizens' National bank of Muncy have announced the election to the cashier's position in that institution of B. E. Richards of Williamsport.

Mr. Richards is one of Williamsport's best known younger citizens. A native of Curwensville, he has been a resident of Williamsport about twenty years. For a long period he engaged in musical instruction in the city and vicinity and has been connected with several of the city's best orchestras.

He is one of the most active members of the Williamsport Symphony, holding the position of concertmaster which his removal to Muncy will cause him to relinquish.

For the last five years Mr. Richards has been on the staff of the First National bank of this city, now occupying the position of teller.

He will sever his connection with the First National in a few days to assume his new duties at Muncy, where he will also soon move his family.

PEDDLERS OF GLASS CASHIER STOCK EXPLAINING METHOD

Forty On Trial Now In
New York City Charged
With Creating Fake
Market For the Stock

WORKED LOVELY

New York, Jan. 8.—Charles J. spurious offers were made to stockholders of the Glass Cashier company to induce them to buy additional shares in the hope of realizing enormous profits, were made by government prosecutors today at the trial of forty defendants, officers and employees of four stock-selling concerns charged with using the mails to defraud.

Letters from fictitious firms to thousands of investors, mostly Pennsylvania working for several years, their value, it was said would be followed by visits from stock salesmen, soliciting more stock subscriptions.

With the prospect of unloading at a much higher price, the stockholder would take the entire allotment, discovering too late that he could not dispose of it. Some stockholders, persuaded to hold their shares, were given a second time, buying these shares on the representation that they would be cheap.

Three officials of the Granger System, Inc., which figured most of the stock-selling operations, pleaded guilty yesterday.

The forty placed on trial today were mostly salesmen for the Granger System, J. E. Dorn and company, A. B. Helm and company, Lester Armstrong and company. Fifteen others have not yet been arrested and two have fled.

HINES ANNOUNCES A COMPLETE SHAKE-UP IN VETERANS BUREAU

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS).—A complete reorganization of the headquarters of the United States Veterans Bureau here, based on a study by bureau officials cooperating with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was announced today by Director Hines.

That the changes will put the Veterans Bureau upon a business basis and eliminate the complacent attitude which brought about government criticism was the belief expressed by the director.

General Hines declared that the Bureau of Efficiency decided past operations of the bureau based upon incorrect policies.

Under the new plan four assistant directors will have charge of: Hospitalization, Claims and Insurance, Finance and Supply, the latter constituting the business operations of the bureau.

CHAMPIONS JAZZ WOULD IMPROVE IT

San Francisco, Jan. 11 (INS).—Asserting that jazz is America's only contribution to the field of music and that its possibilities have been recognized by the master musicians of the day, Prof. Dyanis, of the College of the Pacific today told 200 music teachers gathered in state conference it should be encouraged and not persecuted.

Dyanis' address in championing jazz attracted a number of the world's greatest musicians, including the composer, Maurice Strakosky, and the pianist, Art Schnitzler.

The murderer will be taken to Brookville and given a hearing before a justice of the peace. The crime will permit of no bail so he will be placed in the Jefferson county jail to await trial in the courts of that county. It is not known whether insanity will be entered as a reason for the murder.

STUDENT'S ART DISPLAY

The exhibit of drawings and oil paintings at the I. C. S. exhibit in the Powell Building on Second street was of interest to those interested in Art.

These drawings and paintings are the work of a young man of Slavish parentage, Johnny Smagola, of Madera, Pa. and are the actual instructions received by him in his progress with the Commercial Illustrating Course of the International Correspondence Schools. His paintings have been displayed at St. Vincent's College and in New York City and have elicited much favorable comment from leading art critics. Only the actual work done in connection with his lessons is on display here.

The 1922 Art Annual, authoritative publication of the American Artists' Association, lists the International Correspondence Schools among the sixteen leading Art Schools of the United States and it is worthy of note that they are the only institution teaching by mail so listed.

THE SHOT IN THE NIGHT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The writer of this story, seeking a new adventure, walks toward a room in front of a long low house of a stately architect with French windows leading into the garden. In one of the French windows there burned a light.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was a big armchair covered with crackling chintz, heavily flowered in blue. Upon it, or rather upon her knees on the floor and thrown face down upon the armchair, lay a woman, whose shoulders convulsively heaved as she wept. Evidently she had just risen from her bed, for over her dressing gown of green silk, unbound curly red hair flowed in heavy waves. I watched her for a moment for there was something about her attitude. Her arms were outstretched across the chair; she made no attempt to wipe her tears. I felt a queer feeling that she wept as if she were bleeding to death. Her plump, pretty white arms came out of the green silk sleeves. I was just about to go to her when I perceived in one of her hands a revolver firmly grasped. She had killed him! That woman! It was she who had fired the shot. Obviously it was her husband whom she had killed.

Swiftly the domestic tragedy took form. A maddened woman, killing, one didn't know why, the man who had spent a lonely night in the room behind. But the tears interfered with the logical continuity of my thoughts. Murderer or not, she was crying and crying so that my heart went soft with sympathy. I went up to her and laid a comforting hand upon a shoulder that heaved. I expected her to start up with a scream, but I had forgotten how much she must need the comfort of human contact. For instead, she still raised her head, gripping my hand. Looking up at me with a pleading, pleading face, she murmured: "For God's sake, don't leave me. She rested her cheek against my hand. Her sobs were louder now of course I won't leave you." I said in a comforting tone: "Oh, don't leave me," she said again.

Now try and pull yourself together. I remark it. "It's no use crying. At this her sobs increased and she began to almost scream. I reached out a foolish thing I had said. I didn't know what to do. I couldn't stay indefinitely to be disgraced by the servants perhaps. So I took a heroic remedy. Freeing my hand by a violent effort, I seized her by the shoulders and forced her to look at me. Shaking her vigorously two or three times she gave me a moan, a sob and suddenly her tears stopped. She was staring at me with open mouth her mouth still convulsed, but she was sane.

"Now I said, 'quik. You've no time to waste. What happened?' She seemed to find speech difficult, but she said: 'I can't tell you. On Sunday' I spoke harshly on purpose. 'It's no use trying to hide. I've just been through that room and I found your husband at least. I suppose it's your husband. . . . Don't begin crying again. I said angrily as her mouth opened: 'It's your only chance. Tell me what happened. You shot him, didn't you?' 'Yes,' I caught the whisper. 'Well now, what's to be done?'

She was rapidly becoming composed. "There's nothing to be done except send for the police."

"I suppose I ought to," I said. "But I don't want to if I can help it. Oh, whatever made you do that?"

She was not listening to me, for she replied: "Is he dead?"

"Yes, he's dead," I told her. "I looked. But, by the way, you haven't asked me what I'm doing here." She shrugged her shoulders.

"Yes, I agree with you; it doesn't matter. I was passing outside; I heard a shot, and I came in."

"Well, you'd better send for the police."

"Why should I?" I looked at her more carefully. Instinctively, she had wiped her face, so actively, she had wiped her face, no doubt, it was her beauty which inclined me to mercy. I realized that when all was well with her, this woman would show most beautiful features. The rough, ruddy hair hung in tangled locks as if it had been raveled out of its palls, for a green bow hung at the end of a strand of hair. It grew low upon the white brow, where it made seven beautiful points.

"Well, she went on. 'I married him. I couldn't help it. Seven years ago. He wasn't unkind to me at first. He said he loved me and I suppose he did. And I tried to love him, too. I did my best. But I couldn't. I was always thinking of my boy Dick, far away, and the dreadful letter he wrote me when he heard that I'd married. He was right, but it hurt me dreadfully. For a year or two things went well enough. I was very wretched, but I didn't show it. And my husband, he seemed pleased. But one day, I don't know how, he found out about Dick. I don't see why he minded. I'd married him; that ought to have been enough for him. I was a good wife to him. I swear to you I was. But he got jealous. Jealous of my poor boy Dick, so I saw, whom I had even seen since I married. My husband began to get to me about Dick. Well, I tried to say it was just a boy and girl affair, but my husband understood. He couldn't help feeling that I didn't love him. He thought it was Dick's fault, and so it was in a way. He began to hate him. He was jealous of him, just because I loved him. He hated Dick, and he hated me. Oh, you don't know what it's like. I hope you'll never know. To live with somebody who's got a grudge against you, and who's trying to make you suffer, trying all the time. I don't know how he did it, but you see, he was a rich man. My husband began to take an interest in shipping. He bought shares in ships, and opened an office. And he made a lot of money, for he was clever. Oh, I couldn't bear it."

"But how do you mean?" I said. "I don't quite understand."

"He began to follow the movements of Dick's ship. It was quite easy. He used to come in in the evening, or, and say: 'The boat has been sighted off Sandy Hook. Would you like to send Dick a wireless, darling?' I didn't say anything, but it hurt. Or again, he told me when Dick was promoted to second mate. He found out; he told me. I don't know; he must have made spying a business. He told me how much Dick was getting per month. He even invented stories about Dick and other women, month after month, year after year. Almost every day, he had something to tell me. I gripped my teeth together, tried not to burst out, but it was too much. My husband was using Dick as a cant phrase. Instead of saying: 'I forgot my umbrella today, how careless,' he'd say: 'I'm just as careless as Dick.' And, in a restaurant, he asked me whether I'd like pudding a la Dick. But I didn't get used to it; it only got worse and worse. Year after year. I was going mad with it; perhaps I am mad. But it didn't stop my heart bleeding; perhaps I could have stuck it out, but I was tired of it. For my husband loved me, you know, in his way; indeed, it was always after I'd cried, when I lay weak and sick with hysterics, that he'd take me in his arms and cover me with kisses which I hadn't the strength to resist."

NO DOUBT IT WAS HER BEAUTY WHICH INCLINED ME TO MERCY.

of bright bronze. Under gleaming golden eyebrows, large green eyes were looking at me pitiously, and a very red mouth trembled. "Look here," I said, "Suppose I'd passed your house five minutes later. I shouldn't have heard. I shouldn't have come in. Then you could have escaped. Now, look here, get your clothes on, and go as quick as you can, otherwise you're sure to be caught. You'll go to prison for years. Get your clothes on quick. By the time you're ready I'll be gone."

She seized my arm with her free hand, having evidently forgotten the revolver in the other. "Don't go," she whispered. Then, tensely: "If you go, I'll shoot myself, too."

"But . . . but," I said, vaguely. "Don't go. Yes, I killed him. I don't care. I couldn't help it. I had to. It couldn't go on. I couldn't stand it," she said on a louder note, which made me feel rather hysterical. But suddenly she grew calm: "I don't know who you are, and I don't care. I don't care about anything. I don't care if they hang me. . . . I wish they would."

"Of course they won't hang you," I said. "Listen. Let me tell you. I want to tell you. I suppose you think I'm horrible because I'm a murderer. I couldn't help it." She released my arm and sat down heavily in the armchair, as if her energy deserted her, but all through her story her voice was now audible, though monotonous.

Worth Too Much To Throw Away

EGYPT IS REPRESENTED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS.)—The diplomatic colony of the capital received a notable addition today in the person of the first Egyptian minister ever to be accredited to Washington. He is Yousry Pasha, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from King Fouad, the newly created monarch of the Nile.

Princess Zenab, a daughter of the king, accompanied the minister and his wife to Washington, and will remain at the legation for some time familiarizing herself with American life and customs.

JUMPS FROM FIFTH FLOOR TO DEATH

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 11. (INS.)—Clad only in her night gown over which she had evidently hastily slipped a heavy winter coat, Jessica Taylor 35, who came here from Newton Falls, Ohio, and who resided in a Main street apartment, jumped to death from a window on the Fifth floor this morning.

BANK BANDITS GET $44,500 AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 11. (INS.)—Five negro bandits operating in two autos held up two officials of the Main street bank here today and escaped with $44,500 in cash. The holdup was staged within a block and a half of the nineteenth street police station.

BANDITS KILL ONE IN RAID ON POKER GAME

—One man was killed and another wounded, perhaps fatally, here today when three bandits, who gained entrance by posing as officers, held up a poker game in the home of Samuel Dulovich, at Meffa, near here. The dead man was Michael Bosnich, 30. Joseph Fiedt was wounded in the gun battle with the intruders.

WOULD PROHIBIT TAX FREE SECURITIES

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS.)—The constitutional amendment to stop issuance of tax exempt securities more than $14,000,000 worth of which are now outstanding in the United States, was reported favorably to the House this afternoon by Chairman Green of the Ways and Means Committee. The resolution approving the amendment is expected to be passed by the House next week.

GREEK STILL WITHOUT A CABINET

Athens, Jan. 11. (INS.)—Greece was still without a cabinet today after M. Roussos failed to form a new government on account of the opposition of extremist Republicans the task was entrusted to Gen. Danglis.

WHAT WILL BECOME OF THE CODE?

There is considerable speculation among state officials as to the disposition to be made of the administrative code, now that it is in the custody of the State Supreme Court for decision.

There is practical unanimity of opinion that an early decision will be handed down, possibly the early part of February.

One official, however, whose interest in the code is paramount, is of the opinion that the court will not make known its findings on the governor's reorganization act until political events have moved to a head and the time for the next legislature is at hand.

State Treasurer Snyder, who precipitated the test of the constitutionality of the code, holds the belief that a special session of the legislature will have to be called by the governor in any event.

His contention is that in case a decision favorable to his contention of unconstitutionality is handed down, an extra session would undoubtedly be necessary to permit the payment of moneys under appropriation acts voted into the file of the code.

On the other hand, Auditor General Lewis has held up a number of important appropriation bills involving expenditure of about $500,000, which he could not reconcile with the code, and which would be valid if the code were wiped out but invalid as it stands.

Snyder holds that if Governor Pileggi should call a special session of this money after the court acts and if it finds the administration position well taken, he must call a special session to make these appropriation acts conform with the code.

Chief Justice von Moschizske set in motion any number of speculative rumors about the possible attitude of the court when he specifically inquired at the end of the year whether or not a special session would be necessary.

No one, however, is offering odds on the decision and the only bet that seems safe is that both sides will win.

OUR COUNTY HOME

For several years gossip has had it that conditions at our County Home were disgraceful and unbecoming a civilized people. No less an authority than one of the Commissioners is reported to have said within the last three weeks that "things out there were in a horrible shape."

This same commissioner further said that "there would be a cleanup now that there was some possibility of getting support on the clean-up program from other members of the board and from the appointees at the Home."

Whatever the conditions were in the past it is to be regretted that those who claimed they were in a position to do so did not go the whole way and make somebody suffer. Their failure to do so leads conservative people to believe that part of the criticism was merely gossip for political effect, particularly those charges which indicated criminal negligence if not malfeasance in office.

The commissioner to whom the charge is attributed is President Dale who now rightfully has the power, and we believe the ability, to bring about a new era in the handling of our poor and unfortunate. He should have the undivided support of the board and he will have the able support of the new steward, Thomas Bauman, and his efficient wife.

Mr. Bauman, although a Democrat, was the choice of the board and he received that support because of the fine report made for him by his neighbors and his acquaintances. "A heart as big as a mountain" is the way they speak of Thomas Bauman. "A hard working woman who never rests until the needy and afflicted are cared for," is the report we hear of Mrs. Bauman.

That is the type needed at the County Home. Good luck to them.

The Relationship

which we wish to establish with every citizen in this community is one of helpfulness.

The ideal we have set for ourselves is that every man or woman who honors us with his or her patronage shall advance further along the road to success as a result of this association.

Discussion of any business problem without obligation is cordially invited.

CLEARFIELD TRUST CO.

In the Courts

CIVIL ACTIONS BEGUN

Joseph Cairns, by his father Hugh Cairns, of Salem, Brady township, entered suit in Prothonotary Ralston's office against Spencer Bros., the DuBois furniture dealers, in an effort to recover damages for personal injuries to the boy, received when he was run over by a delivery truck owned by the furniture men and driven by J. E. Spencer, one of the proprietors.

The accident occurred near Salem Nov. 24, 1920. The Cairns lad, but nine years of age, was on his way to the mail box, situated along the state road, and, while crossing the road he was run down by the truck, which the plaintiffs allege was being driven in a "wild, careless and reckless" manner. The boy had a leg broken in three places besides numerous other cuts and bruises about the head and body. The statement filed with the notice of suit, sets out that the boy is permanently injured in that the broken leg is considerably shorter than the other, leg, and while no fixed amount of damages is asked, the father claims to have been put to great expense by reason of the accident. James A. Gleason, Esq., is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Suit was also entered in the Clearfield county courts by Agnes Alexander, of DuBois, thru her attorney Pentz & Pentz, for the purpose of having a road into her property opened. She alleges that this road, which had always been open to traffic, was closed by Wilhelmina Smith. Chas. T. Smith and Walter Smith in May 1922, and by reason of such act she has been greatly damaged, hence the suit for the removal of the fence.

Suit was also entered by Pentz & Pentz on behalf of J. E. Griesemer, of DuBois, against W. J. Milliken and Mrs. Hilliker, alias Mrs. W. A. Milliken, of Traverse City, Mich., for damages to an automobile owned by the plaintiff. The statement filed alleges that on January 8, 1924, the Millikens were driving through DuBois on their way south when their machine collided with the Griesemer auto, badly damaging it, and this suit is brought for the purpose of recovering for the damage done.

HARLEY-SWANK

Walter Myers Harley of Curwensville and Miss Flora Marie Swank of 1619 Seventh avenue, Juniata, were united in marriage Wednesday evening in the parsonage of St. Paul's Reformed church at Altoona. The ring ceremony of the Reformed church was used, the pastor, Rev. J. K. Wetzel, officiating. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Snyder of 717 Sixth avenue, Juniata. The bridegroom is employed as a truckman on the Tyrone division. After a wedding trip to Buffalo, Erie and Warren, O., Mr. and Mrs. Harley will take up their residence at 1918 Seventh avenue, Juniata.

The Tasmanian Devil.
The Tasmanian devil (Sarcophilus harrisii) is a creature in size like a badger, in appearance like a bear. It is ponderous, powerful, dark-colored and covered with a coat of long fur. It sleeps by day and seeks its prey by night.

HOPPE HAS FINE CONTROL IN CONTEST

Boston, Jan. 11 (INS).—Willie Hoppe, Champion billiardist, is in a fair way to retain his 18.2 balk line title from the assaults of Welker Cochran, Pacific Coast star. In their first block last night Hoppe won five hundred to 376.

Women
to attract must Radiate
Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health working silently. Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs.

But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S. since 1926, has been ridding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema, and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks, scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. B. C.

Clearfield county boys and girls generally are made of the stuff which produces winners, in any kind of company and all kinds of competition or endeavor, as has been shown many times over this broad land of ours.

The latest Clearfield countess to gain a measure of fame and rise above her fellows is Miss Adda M. Lutz, daughter of William Lutz, of Mt. Joy, and a niece of Mrs. Edith Hipsley of Walnut street. Miss Lutz, a product of our country schools took up stenography and typewriting when she completed her schooling and quickly became a top notcher in that profession. She was employed in law offices locally for a time and held a position at the headquarters here of District No. 2, U. M. W. of A., for a couple of years.

Turning to stenography for a time and seeking further advancement Miss Lutz decided to take up the study of Osteopathy and graduated in that branch of healing. After taking up the work of her profession the young lady decided she was neither stout-muscled or stout-hearted enough to continue long at "punching" rheumatism, dyspepsia and kindred ills out of the generous clientele presenting itself and giving up her practice Miss Lutz returned to her stenography, securing a position in the law offices of one of Philadelphia's leading attorneys.

Miss Lutz employed her idle moments in the study of law and was recently admitted to the legal profession, opening a law office of her own in Philadelphia last week. The Philadelphia Public Ledger of Sunday last carried a two column picture of the new attorney at her desk with the statement that the opening of Miss Lutz's office was the first step toward the formation of an organized women's law office, where fifteen women lawyers of the city plan to have offices. Thus it will be seen that Clearfield leads along one more line.

The Ledger also printed the following interview given them by Miss Lutz, which should prove of interest to her local friends:

"The great task for professional women today is to continue the general public that women are not intellectually inferior to men, in the opinion of Adda M. Lutz, a lawyer, who has risen from the ranks of stenographer and has just opened her own law office.

"I don't believe in doing facts," Miss Lutz said yesterday in her office. "Women lawyers are not finding the road easy. A man lawyer is presumed to be capable until he proves himself incapable. Women lawyers as lawyers, on the other hand are presumed to be incapable until they prove themselves capable. Proving it is a difficult proposition if opportunity is not given to prove your worth."

"It has become more or less of a duty for women to demonstrate what they can do, especially in the professions. The few women lawyers now practicing are really pioneers. We are planning to establish a women's law office in Philadelphia some time during 1924, so that we may be on an equal footing with men lawyers. The Law Academy, for instance, still bars women lawyers from membership. Types of narrow-mindedness like that must be met and overcome. We want to start with small cases and develop them. We want the same opportunities that they give young men lawyers."

"Women in politics are making the mistake of beginning from the top down. They haven't yet learned to get acquainted in the divisions and organize there and then work for the bottom up. This is typical of women's work in all lines. We must go in on the lower floor, organize and then work up to the higher positions."

"I am a staunch advocate of evening classes," Miss Lutz said. "You know the usual way to spend evenings—lectures, motion pictures, miscellaneous courses—and in the end you are just as tired as if you had attended evening classes and worked toward a definite objective."

Pittsburg Police Looking For Two Gun Men Who Killed A Man In Hold-up

Pittsburgh, Jan. 10 (HNS)—Police today are looking for two holdup men, one perhaps wounded, who late last night, shot and killed John K. Klein in the barroom of his saloon on the Northside when he resisted their efforts to hold him up.

Klein fell with a bullet in his right temple after a desperate gun battle with the robbers. Klein's son, hearing the shots, seized an automatic pistol on a table in a rear room and following the slayers of his father, emptied the pistol at them. He says he believes one of the men was wounded.

BRIGHT LITTLE BOY DIES

Clyde Orrie, son of Alice and Edna Norris, died at his parents' home on the James Norris homestead at 9:30 o'clock Sunday, evening aged 10 years and three months.

He had been a patient sufferer with pneumonia for ten days. All that medical skill and trained nursing could do was done for him but to no avail. During his illness he told his parents he was going to his sisters, who died with the same dread disease, one Orma, aged 7, in 1919, and Thelma in 1921.

His parents, one brother and three sisters are left to mourn his death.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. Collins, whose text "Suffer little child on to come unto me" was very appropriate as were the songs so sweetly rendered by the choir of Curwensville Methodist Church.

The little body was tenderly laid to rest in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery to await the call at the last day when the grave shall give up its dead.

Curwensville's Own Calumet

A meeting of the Curwensville Auxiliary to the Children's Aid Society of Clearfield, will be held in the American Legion rooms on Tuesday afternoon, January 15th, at 2 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Harold Moore, a resident of Curwensville some thirty years past, son of Dublin, was a visitor to town relatives for several days this week.

The next regular meeting of Noble Lodge No. 400, F and A M., will be held in their new home in the old John Irvin house east State street. The building has been altered and made into a home that does credit to the organization.

The old Bradford store building, corner of 8th and Walnut streets, is being overhauled by the new purchasers, Messrs. Bonnell & Holton and it will not be many days before the altered rooms will be put in condition for convenient auto show rooms.

Owing to the absence of a "splitter" at the Penna Hide and Leather company plant, a suspension of work had to be made in several of the departments especially in the yard and harness shop. All branches of this industry will be put in operation by the first of next week.

The Clearfield collar maker, town of Curwensville, who works in every other day, has been working in the Foreman's shop, and tried to work yesterday, but the rain would likely work every day in the week from now on. These some unforeseen change in the present price of coal took place. When No. 19 has not been working this week on account of an accident to some of the machinery, the most damage was done to the boiler of the No. 19 engine, and the fact that it will be some time before it will be repaired. The boiler of the No. 19 engine is the only one of the kind in the town of Curwensville, and the other No. 19 engine is working about half time, excepting the Dunbar which has shut down for an indefinite period.

Earl McFadden had the misfortune to smash several fingers on the right hand Monday while engaged at his work at Barrett. Harold Ploom, employed at No. 19 mine had his right hand caught while coupling mine cars Wednesday with the result of the two last fingers being crushed considerably.

Griddle Cakes

Light, tender, golden brown—no other griddle cakes are like those baked with Calumet. No substitute will give you the same result as

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Its purity contributes to the wholesomeness of your bakings. It's pure in the can and pure in the baking.

This superiority—this exceptional quality of Calumet—does not cost you a cent extra—not a cent. In fact it saves you money.

Calumet is the most economical of all Baking Powders. You save when you buy it—moderate in price. You save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. You save materials it is used with—never fails.

Contains only such ingredients as have been approved officially by United States Food Authorities.

The sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other brand.

Calumet Griddle Cakes

2 level cups flour
2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt

1 level tablespoon sugar
2 level tablespoons melted shortening
2 eggs—yolks
1½ cups milk or water

How to Make Them
Mix dry ingredients in flour. Beat egg yolks and melted shortening in the liquid, add only a part of the liquid—mix until thoroughly smooth. Then add gradually the balance of the liquid until the batter is of the proper consistency. According to the strength of the flour more or less liquid is required. Bake on hot griddle well greased.
Paste in your Recipe Book for future reference.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

SCIENCE HOPES TO COMMUNICATE WITH MARS THIS SUMMER

Planet of Mars Will Be Nearer to Earth This Year Than It Will Be Again In 1975.

GETTING READY

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH (U. S. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 9.—Science may be on the verge of a new era of space penetration. The veil of mystery surrounding the red-glowing planet Mars is being torn away. Dr. Coblentz of the U. S. National Bureau of Standards, who has been studying the heat radiation of Mars for several years, has announced that he expects to be able to communicate with the planet this summer.

station. In 1924, however, with astronomical instruments perfected to a remarkable degree, it is anticipated that important discoveries will be made.

The thin atmosphere about Mars, coupled with the expected brilliancy of the planet will—in the next eight months—offer astronomers their greatest opportunity of modern times, according to Dr. Coblentz.

"There are two schools in astronomy, one holding that there is animal life on Mars, and the other that conditions are not conducive to life," Dr. Coblentz said. "Perhaps this summer, with Mars at its most brilliant period, something definite will be learned."

Dr. Coblentz cannot believe there is further life on Mars than that of plants, such as are found around the terrestrial polar regions. "My heat measurements indicate that when the sun is shining on the surface of Mars the climate is warm enough for human life, but because of the rarified atmosphere when the sun goes down the temperature falls far below zero, making impossible life other than is found in the most extreme polar regions."

Dr. Coblentz declared that astronomers this summer will make a close study of the rotation speed of planets and of their physical composition. Considerable importance is attached to the speed with which the heavenly bodies move through space and a fairly accurate estimate may clear up a number of points on which astronomers differ, bureau experts said.

Dr. Coblentz will go to Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona, to continue his study of heat radiations from Mars as well as the other planets. More than a year the Bureau of standards expert has been studying heat radiation by use of a spectroscopic.

Fifty years ago astronomers observed Mars at her periodical zenith of brilliancy with a scientific interest that was probably mixed with super-

Seth Thomas Had Monopoly.
The first important clock factory in America was established by Seth Thomas, who long held a practical monopoly of the clock-making industry in the United States. Among the great heirlooms of many American families are old Seth Thomas clocks, and many of them are still ticking away. The earliest ancestor of the clock was the sun dial, and this was supplanted by the water clock, which was invented in Rome about 2,000 years ago. The next improvement was the substitution of a weight for the sand, and about the year 1000 the modern clock was perfected.

JORDAN'S

Little Capes

These capes form the shawl of the most elegant dress of heavy fabric. Just a little gathering on each shoulder adjusts the neckline for the rest of the dress in an instant. The model is suitable in all colors or satin in any of the popular colors and would be especially attractive in velvet. It may be worn with or without a belt according to one's personal taste.

Frilled Dress

This is an apron-front dress in three pieces. The pleated full skirt is an extra feature. Of course, there is no belt in front because it follows the princess lines. A narrow belt ties in the back. It's a style that deserves two-fold commendation for its smart, princess-like lines and for its use of the newest fabric.

BUTLER THREAT TO "BUST" POLICEMEN WAS CARRIED OUT

Two Police Lieutenants
In "Vareldom" Lose
Stripes In the Drive of Militant Director.

MAYOR APPROVES

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 11 (INS).—A lone "leather-neck" stood out today as victor over Philadelphia's super-political machine.

Smiles wreathed the face of Gen. Snodgrass Butler, as director of Public Safety, had "busted" Johnny Mullen and Lieut. John Duffy. The powers that be gasped in astonishment.

"How long will 'Busting Butler' last?" was the question asked on every hand.

Never before in Philadelphia's 26 years of police politics had a director of Safety dared to so much as "look crooked" at the two Johns. Duffy, it was explained, was Czar of "Vareldom"—the home ward of Congressman Wm. Vare, maker and breaker of Mayors. Mullen ruled the district attributed to Charles Hall, President of the City Council.

Butler without ever mentioning the matter to Vare or Hall demoted both Duffy and Mullen, informed both that if they wished to continue as police they must become plain patrolmen, surrendering their Lieutenant's shields within five days.

Kendrick Stands Pat

Duffy stormed. Mullen swore. Both visited Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick. Somebody notified Bill Vare in Washington. His office supplied the information that Vare was on his way to Philadelphia.

"I can't interfere—Butler is in command," was Kendrick's only comment.

Just before Gen. Butler turned in at midnight he said:

"I busted Duffy and Mullen because I believed they did not show the proper spirit. Both were reported to have taken their days off during the 48 hours vice drive. However I have been informed both men were actually on duty walking their districts checking up on men."

Butler did not reveal the source of his information. He would not confirm or deny that he had learned this in the Mayor's private office. On his tour of inspection he had been informed neither Duffy nor Mullen was on duty. At that time Butler did not know that such a district as "Vareldom" existed.

"Well, if Duffy and Mullen were on duty, of course their suspensions will not stand," Butler admitted.

Police were less active today. General Butler estimated 80 per cent of the vice, bootlegging and crime in the city had been "cleaned" up.

He turned his attention to the city's traffic problem today. Bandits appeared to have taken warning of Gen. Butler's activities. For the first time this year a night passed without a holdup. Ten robberies were reported—one third of the nightly average for the first ten days of the month. The loot was less than $1,000.

"As we free ourselves from the bootlegger and the drug addict

PROMINENT MANUFACTURER OF CANTON HELD FOR DEATH OF GIRL FOUND DEAD ALONG LONELY ROAD

Canton, Ohio, Jan. 11. (INS).—Louis E. Griffith, president of the United Machine & Mfg. Co., was charged with first degree murder here this morning in connection with the death of pretty 19-year-old Ruth Hunter. Bond was not furnished at once and the prisoner was remanded to jail.

Filing of the charge against the wealthy manufacturer brings to a climax a mystery which has baffled police since Wednesday when the pretty little Canton girl was found dead on the Richville-Reed urban road near this city.

Cleveland Girl Who Disappeared Is Found At Her Grandmother's

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 11. (INS).—Wilma Lowman, 16, believed to have been kidnapped when she failed to report at St. Joseph's Academy, Titusville, Pa., is safe at the home of her grandmother Mrs. Josephine Graham, Mingo Junction, Pa., her father, George Graham, said here this morning.

The girl's mother is dead, and the father wanted her to attend school at Titusville, but she rebelled and when sent back Sunday took the train to Mingo Junction instead. A message was received by the father from the grandmother late yesterday and Graham left to bring his daughter back to Cleveland and put her in school here.

BORAH CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMITTEE WHICH CONSIDERS RUSS RECOGNITION

Washington, Jan. 11 (INS).—Senator Wm. E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, the champion of Russian recognition in the Senate, will be chairman of the Senate Committee that is to conduct a thorough inquiry covering every phase of the Russian situation it was announced here today.

The other members of the committee are:

Lenroot of Wisconsin, and Pepper, of Pennsylvania, Republicans; and Swanson of Virginia, and Pittman, of Nevada, Democrats.

CAN'T TELL WHAT THESE PHILIPBURGERS WILL DO

A Ford touring car bearing a 1922 Pennsylvania license, No. 225-063, and a Philadelphia name plate, came to much grief at "Dead Man's Curve" on South Second street some time last night, after 10 o'clock.

The driver was coming down the river something less than 408 miles an hour, judging from the condition of the wrecked car, a Ford. At any rate he was hitting a pace entirely too fast for the turn and the car crashed into the curb and hopped over, landing four or five feet beyond the road on the lawn of Roll B. Thompson, badly wrecking the machine.

Other crimes will also go," Gen. Butler predicted.

Vare Comments.
Philadelphia, Jan. 11. (INS).—Congressman Wm. S. Vare arrived here today from Washington. It is reported he plans important conferences with Mayor Kendrick and disgruntled leaders who have been badly beset by Gen. Butler in his vice crusade.

All Mr. Vare would say when asked about the Butler situation was:

"Why should I talk political business? I'm a congressman, not a cop."

J. Wesley Gearhart, of West Chester, father of Mrs. W. W. Wrigley, who underwent a serious operation at the Clearfield Hospital several days ago, is recovering very satisfactorily at this time, his many friends will be pleased to know.

FIND BODY IN THE CHANNEL BELIEVED TO BE LT. SPERRY

Rye, England, Jan. 11 (INS).—A decomposed body believed to be that of Lawrence Sperry, missing American aviator was picked up in the English channel off this port today.

The trousers are similar to those worn by Sperry when his airplane fell into the Channel five weeks ago.

CHARGE MICHIGAN MAN WITH STARVING HIS SEVEN CHILDREN

Muskegon, Mich., Jan. 11. (INS).—A warrant charging William C. Mooney, Mona Lake tent dweller, with manslaughter in connection with the deaths during the last 11 years of seven of the ten children born to him and Mrs. Mooney will be asked today, according to authorities. Mooney's arrest followed complaint by his wife that he had caused the death of his children by neglecting to provide food and clothing. Maxine, a five-week-old daughter, and a twin sister have died since Christmas.

"My babies cried for food," Mrs. Mooney told officers, "and at last when I could stand their cries no longer I began to give them condensed milk the neighbors had given me. I gave them each five teaspoons full once and my husband struck me for it."

Mooney is employed at a local foundry. He earns $35 a week, his wife said.

FIREMEN TO ATTEND DIVINE SERVICES ON SUNDAY EVENING

The Clearfield Fire Department will go to the Sunday evening service at the church against the devil and all his works.

It is the custom of the volunteer firemen of the State to go to church at least once a year, many of whom enjoy just that rare treat, at which time their annual memorial sermon is preached by the pastor of the church designated for the service.

This year St. Andrew's Episcopal church has been selected and the sermon will be preached by the pastor, the Rev. Richard Allen Hatch.

The date selected for the annual memorial sermon is that Sunday nearest to the birthday of that most illustrious and pioneer volunteer fireman the late lamented Benjamin Franklin. The Clearfield Fire Department has a membership of about three hundred men. Keep your eye on the calendar which leaves No. 1 hose house Sunday evening next and see for yourself just how many firemen there are who can't even make it to church once a year.

Mr. Russell Brown returned to his home in Toledo, Iowa, after visiting his sister Mrs. A. E. Leasure.

FALLS CREEK BOY OF EIGHTEEN HAMMERS MOTHER TO DEATH

Whole Community Has
Been Shocked By Cool
Confession Made After
Days of Mystery.

A HORRIBLE CRIME

DuBois, Pa., Jan. 10.—One of the most dastardly crimes ever committed in this section was uncovered yesterday afternoon, when Homer E. Senior, the 18-year-old son of Mrs. H. G. Senior, the woman who received injuries which resulted in her death last Friday afternoon, confessed to the murder of his mother before Sergeant Thomas F. Martin and Private Charles E. Stacy, of the Butler detachment of the Pennsylvania state police. The police had been working diligently on the case since last Monday afternoon, when it was decided that Mrs. Senior had met death at the hands of some unknown party, and while each day some evidence was gathered, the police kept the affair quiet until the confession was made.

The family lives near Falls Creek. It will be remembered that the first announcement of the death of Mrs. Senior stated that death had been caused as the result of a fall, but neither the attending physicians nor the family were satisfied with this explanation, so Coroner W. G. Gatti, of Jefferson county, was called into the case, and in a post mortem examination, determined that Mrs. Senior had met death at the hands of an unknown party. From the start the son was suspected of having committed the crime, but the evidence gathered was not sufficient to cause his arrest until yesterday.

According to the officers who arrested the lad, it is believed that he is at times demented, and they believe that it was during one of these spells that he committed the crime, not really realizing what he was doing.

Following the clues which had been developed, the officers yesterday brought the young man to DuBois and after a grueling which lasted a large portion of the day, finally secured a confession from him, and taking the murderer to the scene of the murder, asked him to explain his actions when he killed his mother. The boy related the crime before the officers and a number of prominent residents of Falls Creek.

According to the story of the lad, his mother had been scolding him constantly for nearly a month before the day of the crime. It appears that the lad had many failings which were grievous to his mother, and in her method of correcting him, a constant nagging had angered him to the extent he was willing to do anything to get away from it. It is believed the scoldings worked the lad up to the breaking point, and he finally worried himself into committing the crime.

According to those who are well acquainted with the family, the lad had committed numerous minor wrongs which were not in accord with the wishes of his mother, and he had for some time been a source of unlimited worry to her.

The murder was committed last Tuesday afternoon, at a time when no other members of the family were in the home. The lad and his father had been working at the barn. Leaving the barn some ten or fifteen minutes before his parent, the boy made his way to the house. It was necessary for him to pass a woodshed on his way to the house, and he entered this, procuring a sledge hammer. Then

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS).—Resolutions asking the Interstate Commerce Commission not to approve the consolidation of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad with either the Baltimore and Ohio or the New York Central were adopted today by the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress. It was proposed that the P. and R. be left independent in any consolidation, although both the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central want to take it over.

That Missed Yesterday Diphtheria Prevention Treatment For Children Can Be Taken Any Time

Something over a hundred little folk from a few months old to six years old answered present at the Red Cross rooms yesterday afternoon to be immunized from diphtheria in response to the offer of the State of Pennsylvania to do this work free.

The staff of doctors, nurses and volunteer aids were right on the job and within a couple of hours all of the over one hundred visitors to the office had been cared for and sent home happy.

The Red Cross nurses are very anxious that every child of this community under the age of six years receive this free treatment and they expect that the dread disease of diphtheria will not be as frequent a visitor to Clearfield hereafter if the offer is taken advantage of. Over three hundred signed the slips when they passed around but only a few over a hundred presented their children yesterday. Now, what a dreadful thing it would be if diphtheria should attack one of these children who lost the opportunity to be fortified against the invader of the disease.

The Progress asked the nurses today if the time was passed for free treatment and they said it was not. They will be glad to immunize any children brought to the Red Cross rooms by their parents. The rooms are open daily from one to two o'clock.

The next regular inoculation will be next Thursday afternoon at which time those who received the first treatment will be expected to come back for the second. First treatments will also be given at this time so do not neglect to attend to this duty to your children.

HOPE FOR SAFETY OF ENGLISH SUB CREW ABANDONED

London, Jan. 11 (INS).—Advises received by the Admiralty today indicated that the submarine L-24 which was rammed by the dreadnaught Resolution off Portland during maneuvers, was cut in two.

Hope for the safety of the 43 men aboard has been abandoned.

Salvage ships reported to the Admiralty they believed they had located the wreck of the L-24 in the thirty fathoms of water ten miles off Portland.

Owing to rough water divers were not able to descend from the salvage ships to examine the wreckage.

Immigration Bill To Be Reported Out Is Based On 1890 Alien Census

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS).—American legislation will be reported from the House immigration committee next week under present plans, it was announced today by Congressman Cable, Republican of Ohio.

The legislation will be restrictive and selective, said Cable. Immigration will be 100 per cent of the 1900 census of the United States and about 50 per cent of the quota from northern and southern Europe.

BREAKING FLYWHEEL FATALLY INJURES SAW MILL LABORER

Struck on the head when the flywheel of the sawmill he was operating broke and was sent spinning through the air, Marshall Lee Iselt, 53 years old, was almost instantly killed about 9 o'clock yesterday morning.

The accident occurred on the Christian Albright land in Sinking Valley, about six miles from Tyrone. Iselt had been working only a short while before the wheel burst.

He was dead before other employees at the mill, who hurried to his assistance, could summon medical aid.

Iselt, who was unmarried, lived with his brother, Hayes Iselt, on a farm in Sinking Valley and for some time had been engaged in farming. He was at one time a teacher in the public schools of Tyrone township and was a nephew of A. Lee Fleck, for twelve years a Blair county director of the poor.

Coroner C. C. Rothrock was not notified of the accident until shortly after noon yesterday and consequently postponed making an investigation until this morning.

Iselt was born on June 2, 1870, the son of David W. Iselt and Mary A. Fleck. He was a member of the Sinking Valley Lutheran church and agent in Sinking Valley for the Williamsburg Mutual Fire Insurance company. He was well known throughout all of Sinking Valley.

Curwensville Native Is Elected Cashier Of The Muncy National Bank

The officers of the Citizens' National bank of Muncy have announced the election to the cashier's position in that institution of B. E. Richards of Williamsport.

Mr. Richards is one of Williamsport's best known younger citizens. A native of Curwensville, he has been a resident of Williamsport about twenty years. For a long period he engaged in musical instruction in the city and vicinity and has been connected with several of the city's best orchestras.

He is one of the most active members of the Williamsport Symphony, holding the position of concertmaster which his removal to Muncy will cause him to relinquish.

For the last five years Mr. Richards has been on the staff of the First National bank of this city, now occupying the position of teller.

He will sever his connection with the First National in a few days to assume his new duties at Muncy, where he will also soon move his family.

Mrs. J. M. McDowell of Park avenue entertained Chapter A. of the Episcopal church on Thursday night in honor of the newly elected officers. Mrs. Geo. Young and Miss Brown.

Mr. Pyles, the candy man, from DuBois has been endeavoring to fill the candy cases which were emptied during Christmas.

Mr. S. P. Rauch, of Fetherdale, is visiting his daughter Mrs. James Spence of Linden street.

Mrs. McCoy, mother of Mrs. Key Potter, is quite ill at the Potter home on S. Third street.

PEDDLERS OF GLASS CASHIER STOCK EXPLAINING METHOD

Forty On Trial Now In
New York City Charged
With Creating Fake
Market For the Stock

WORKED LOVELY

New York, Jan. 8.—Charles J. Spurious offers were made to stockholders of the Glass Cashier company to induce them to buy additional shares in the hope of realizing enormous profits, were made by government prosecutors today at the trial of forty defendants, officers and employees of four stock-selling concerns charged with using the mails to defraud.

Letters from fictitious firms to thousands of investors, mostly Pennsylvania working for several years, their value, it was said would be followed by visits from stock salesmen, soliciting more stock subscriptions.

With the prospect of unloading at a much higher price, the stockholder would take the entire allotment, discovering too late that he could not dispose of it. Some stockholders, persuaded to hold their shares, even were "bought" a second time, buying them back on the representation that they would be elected directors, the prosecutors alleged.

Three officials of the Granger System, Inc., which offered most of the stock-selling operations, pleaded guilty yesterday.

The forty placed on trial today were mostly salesmen for the Granger System, J. E. Dorn and company, A. B. Klein and company, Lester Armstrong and company. Fifteen others have not yet been arrested and two have fled.

HINES ANNOUNCES A COMPLETE SHAKE-UP IN VETERANS BUREAU

Washington, Jan. 11. (INS).—A complete reorganization of the headquarters of the United States Veterans Bureau here, based on a study by bureau officials cooperating with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was announced today by Director Hines.

That the changes will put the Veterans Bureau upon a business basis and eliminate the complacent attitude which brought about government criticism was the belief expressed by the director.

General Hines declared that the Bureau of Efficiency decided past operations of the bureau had been up to incorrect policies.

Under the new plan four assistant directors will have charge of:

Registration and Claims and Insurance.
Finance and supply, the latter constituting the business operations of the bureau.

CHAMPIONS JAZZ WOULD IMPROVE IT

Sanramento, Jan. 11 (INS).—Asserting that jazz is America's only contribution to the field of music and that its possibilities have been recognized by the master musicians of the day, Prof. Dyanis, of the College of the Pacific today told 200 music teachers gathered in state conference it should be encouraged and not persecuted.

Dyanis' address in championing jazz attracted a number of the attending teachers who were opposed to jazz and who were protesting against its inclusion in the curriculum of the state board of education.

STUDENT'S ART DISPLAY

The exhibit of drawings and oil paintings at the I. C. S. exhibit in the Powell Building on Second street was of interest to those interested in Art.

These drawings and paintings are the work of a young man of Slavish parentage, Johnny Smagola, of Madera, Pa. and are the actual instructions received by him in his progress with the Commercial Illustrating Course of the International Correspondence Schools. His paintings have been displayed at St. Vincent's College and in New York City and have elicited much favorable comment from leading art critics. Only the actual work done in connection with his lessons is on display here.

The 1922 Art Annual, published by the American Art Association, lists the International Correspondence Schools among the sixteen leading Art Schools of the United States and it is worthy of note that they are the only institution teaching by mail so listed.

The House of Quality

After Midnight

by M.L. George

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The writer of this story, seeking a new adventure, walks toward a room in front of a long low house of a stately architect with tall French windows leading into the garden. In one of the French windows there burned a light.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

There was a big armchair covered with crackling chintz, heavily flowered in blue. Upon it, or rather upon her knees on the floor and thrown face down upon the armchair, lay a woman, whose shoulders convulsively heaved as she wept. Evidently she had just risen from her bed, for over her dressing gown of green silk, unbound curly red hair flowed in heavy waves. I watched her for a moment for there was something about her attitude. Her arms were outstretched across the chair; she made no attempt to wipe her tears. I felt a queer feeling that she wept as if she were bleeding to death. Her plump, pretty white arms came out of the green silk sleeves. I was just about to go to her when I perceived in one of her hands a revolver firmly grasped. It was she who had fired the shot. Obviously it was her husband whom she had killed.

Swiftly the domestic tragedy took form. A maddened woman, killing, one didn't know why, the man who had spent a lonely night in the room behind. But the tears interfered with the logical continuity of my thoughts. Murderer or not, she was crying and crying so that my heart went soft with sympathy. I went up to her and laid a comforting hand upon a shoulder that heaved. I expected her to start up with a scream, but I had forgotten how much she must need the comfort of human contact. For instead, she still raised her head, gripping my hand. Looking up at me with a pleading, pleading face, she murmured: "For God's sake, don't leave me. She rested her cheek against my hand. Her sobs were louder now of course I won't leave you." I said in a comforting tone: "Oh, don't leave me," she said again.

Now try and pull yourself together. I remark it. "It's no use crying. At this her sobs increased and she began to almost scream. I reached out a foolish thing I had said. I didn't know what to do. I couldn't stay indefinitely to be disgusted by the servant's perhaps. So I took a heroic remedy. Freeing my hand by a violent effort, I seized her by the shoulders and forced her to look at me. Shaking her vigorously two or three times she gave me a moan, a sob and suddenly her tears stopped. She was staring at me with open mouth her mouth still convulsed, but she was silent.

"Now I said, 'quik. You've no time to waste. What happened?' She seemed to find speech difficult, but she said: 'I can't tell you. On Sunday' I spoke harshly on purpose. 'It's no use trying to hide. I've just been through that room and I found your husband at least. I suppose it's your husband. . . . Don't begin crying again. I said angrily as her mouth opened. 'It's your only chance. Tell me what happened. You shot him, didn't you?' 'Yes,' I caught the whisper. 'Well now, what's to be done?'

She was rapidly becoming composed. "There's nothing to be done except send for the police." "I suppose I ought to," I said. "But I don't want to if I can help it. Oh, whatever made you do that?" She was not listening to me, for she replied: "Is he dead?" "Yes, he's dead," I told her. "I looked. But, by the way, you haven't asked me what I'm doing here." She shrugged her shoulders. "Yes, I agree with you; it doesn't matter. I was passing outside; I heard a shot, and I came in."

"Well, you'd better send for the police." "Why should I?" I looked at her more carefully. Instinctively, she had wiped her face, so actively, she had wiped her face, no doubt, it was her beauty which inclined me to mercy. I realized that when all was well with her, this woman would show most beautiful features. The rough, ruddy hair hung in tangled locks as if it had been raveled out of its palls, for a green bow hung at the end of a strand of hair. It grew low upon the white brow, where it made seven beautiful points.

NO DOUBT IT WAS HER BEAUTY WHICH INCLINED ME TO MERCY.

Of bright bronze. Under gleaming golden eyebrows, large green eyes were looking at me pitiously, and a very red mouth trembled. "Look here," I said, "Suppose I'd passed your house five minutes later. I shouldn't have heard. I shouldn't have come in. Then you could have escaped. Now, look here, get your clothes on, and go as quick as you can, otherwise you're sure to be caught. You'll go to prison for years. Get your clothes on quick. By the time you're ready I'll be gone."

She seized my arm with her free hand, having evidently forgotten the revolver in the other. "Don't go," she whispered. Then, tensely: "If you go, I'll shoot myself, too." "Sit . . . but," I said, vaguely. "Don't go. Yes, I killed him. I don't care. I couldn't help it. I had to. It couldn't go on. I couldn't stand it," she said on a louder note, which made me feel rather hysterical. But suddenly she grew calm. "I don't know who you are, and I don't care. I don't care about anything. I don't care if they hang me. . . . I wish they would." "Of course they won't hang you," I said. "Listen. Let me tell you. I want to tell you. I suppose you think I'm horrible because I'm a murderer. I couldn't help it." She released my arm and sat down heavily in the armchair, as if her energy deserted her, but all through her story her voice was now audible, though monotonous.

"The man you've just seen, who's dead in there, was my husband. We've been married for seven years. When we married I was 17, and he was 45. I didn't want to marry him. I . . . I wanted to marry somebody else . . . my boy Dick. My mother, well, she didn't like Dick. You see, we were what is called nice people, and Dick was third mate on a ship in the merchant service. Mother said he wasn't the right class for me. They wouldn't let me marry him. He was only 21, and he wasn't earning much. Oh, I was bad, bad."

She stopped, and I said: "How do you mean, bad?" "Oh, I ought to have stuck to him. I promised him. I told him I'd wait. But they wanted me to marry . . . the man I married. He was rich, very rich, and we were so poor. Oh, I ought to have stuck to him, my boy Dick . . . but they were too strong for me. I couldn't. I was only 17. Oh, you do understand, don't you? I couldn't. They were too strong."

"Yes," I said. "I understand. Go on."

"Well," she went on. "I married him. I couldn't help it. Seven years ago. He wasn't unkind to me at first. He said he loved me, and I suppose he did. And I tried to love him, too. I did my best. But I couldn't. I was always thinking of my boy Dick, far away, and the dreadful letter he wrote me when he heard that I'd married. He was right, but it hurt me dreadfully. For a year or two things went well enough. I was very wretched, but I didn't show it. And my husband, he seemed pleased. But one day, I don't know how, he found out about Dick. I don't see why he minded. I'd married him; that ought to have been enough for him. I was a good wife to him: I swear to you I was. But he got jealous. Jealous of my poor boy Dick. So he went away, and I had even seen him. I married. My husband began to tell me about Dick. Well, I tried to say it was just a boy and girl affair, but my husband understood. He couldn't help feeling that I didn't love him. He thought it was Dick's fault, and so it was in a way. He began to hate him. He was jealous of him, just because I loved him. He hated Dick, and he hated me. Oh, you don't know what it's like. I hope you'll never know. To live with somebody who's got a grudge against you, and who's trying to make you suffer, trying all the time. I don't know how he did it, but you see, he was a rich man. My husband began to take an interest in shipping. He bought shares in ships, and opened an office. And he made a lot of money, for he was clever. Oh, I couldn't bear it."

"But how do you mean?" I said. "I don't quite understand." "He began to follow the movements of Dick's ship. It was quite easy. He used to come in in the evening, and say: 'This is the ship. Would you like to send Dick a wireless, darling?' I didn't say anything, but it hurt. Or again, he told me when Dick was promoted to second mate. He found out; he told me. I don't know; he must have made spying a business. He told me how much Dick was getting per month. He even invented stories about Dick and other women, month after month, year after year. Almost every day, he had something to tell me. I gripped my teeth together, tried not to burst out, but it was too much. My husband was using Dick as a cant phrase. Instead of saying: 'I forgot my umbrella today, how careless,' he'd say: 'I'm just as careless as Dick.' And, in a restaurant, he asked me whether I'd like pudding a la Dick. But I didn't get used to it; it only got worse and worse. Year after year. I was going mad with it; perhaps I am mad. But it didn't stop my heart bleeding; perhaps I could have stuck it out, but I was tired of it. For my husband loved me, you know, in his way; indeed, it was always after I'd cried, when I lay weak and sick with hysterics, that he'd take me in his arms and cover me with kisses which I hadn't the strength to resist."

"Gee-Whiz! How it Hurts—The Pain in My Foot!"

"Sometimes it is in my arm. Merciful Heaven, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking the advice of Dr. Pierce, which is "Keep the kidneys in good order!"

"Avoid too much meat, alcohol or tea. Drink plenty of pure water, preferably hot water, before meals, and drive the uric acid out of the system by taking Anuric." This can be obtained as almost any drug store.

Send a bottle of water to the chemist at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and you will receive free medical advice as to whether the kidneys are affected. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from backache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and pains of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, take heed, before too late. Get Anuric (anti-uric-acid), for it will put new life into your kidneys and your entire system. Ask your nearest druggist for it or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for trial package.

WHAT WILL BECOME OF THE CODE?

There is considerable speculation among state officials as to the disposition to be made of the administrative code, now that it is in the custody of the State Supreme Court for decision.

There is practical unanimity of opinion that an early decision will be handed down, possibly the early part of February.

One official, however, whose interest in the code is paramount, is of the opinion that the court will not make known its findings on the governor's reorganization act until political events have moved to a head and the time for the next legislature is at hand.

State Treasurer Snyder, who precipitated the test of the constitutionality of the code, holds the belief that a special session of the legislature will have to be called by the governor in any event.

His contention is that in case a decision favorable to his contention of unconstitutionality is handed down, an extra session would undoubtedly be necessary to permit the payment of moneys under appropriation acts voted into the future of the code.

On the other hand, Auditor General Lewis has held up a number of important appropriation bills involving expenditure of about $500,000, which he could not reconcile with the code, and which would be valid if the code were wiped out but invalid as it stands.

Snyder holds that if Governor Pileggi should call a special session of this money after the court acts and if it finds the administration position well taken, he must call a special session to make these appropriation acts conform with the code.

Chief Justice von Moschizske set in motion any number of speculative rumors about the possible attitude of the court when he specifically inquired at the end of the year whether or not a special session would be necessary.

No one, however, is offering odds on the decision and the only bet that seems safe is that both sides will win.

OUR COUNTY HOME

For several years gossip has had it that conditions at our County Home were disgraceful and unbecoming a civilized people. No less an authority than one of the Commissioners is reported to have said within the last three weeks that "things out there were in a horrible shape."

This same commissioner further said that "there would be a cleanup now that there was some possibility of getting support on the clean-up program from other members of the board and from the appointees at the Home."

Whatever the conditions were in the past it is to be regretted that those who claimed they were in a position to do so did not go the whole way and make somebody suffer. Their failure to do so leads conservative people to believe that part of the criticism was merely gossip for political effect, particularly those charges which indicated criminal negligence if not malfeasance in office.

The commissioner to whom the charge is attributed is President Dale who now rightfully has the power, and we believe the ability, to bring about a new era in the handling of our poor and unfortunate. He should have the undivided support of the board and he will have the able support of the new steward, Thomas Bauman, and his efficient wife.

Mr. Bauman, although a Democrat, was the choice of the board and he received that support because of the fine report made for him by his neighbors and his acquaintances. "A heart as big as a mountain" is the way they speak of Thomas Bauman. "A hard working woman who never rests until the needy and afflicted are cared for," is the report we hear of Mrs. Bauman.

That is the type needed at the County Home. Good luck to them.

The Relationship

which we wish to establish with every citizen in this community is one of helpfulness.

The ideal we have set for ourselves is that every man or woman who honors us with his or her patronage shall advance further along the road to success as a result of this association.

Discussion of any business problem without obligation is cordially invited.

CLEARFIELD TRUST CO.

In the Courts

CIVIL ACTIONS BEGUN

Joseph Cairns, by his father Hugh Cairns, of Salem, Brady township, entered suit in Prothonotary Ralston's office against Spencer Bros., the DuBois furniture dealers, in an effort to recover damages for personal injuries to the boy, received when he was run over by a delivery truck owned by the furniture men and driven by J. E. Spencer, one of the proprietors.

The accident occurred near Salem Nov. 24, 1920. The Cairns lad, but nine years of age, was on his way to the mail box, situated along the state road, and, while crossing the road he was run down by the truck, which the plaintiffs allege was being driven in a "wild, careless and reckless" manner. The boy had a leg broken in three places besides numerous other cuts and bruises about the head and body. The statement filed with the notice of suit, sets out that the boy is permanently injured in that the broken leg is considerably shorter than the other, leg, and while no fixed amount of damages is asked, the father claims to have been put to great expense by reason of the accident. James A. Gleason, Esq., is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Suit was also entered in the Clearfield county courts by Agnes Alexander, of DuBois, thru her attorney Pentz & Pentz, for the purpose of having a road into her property opened. She alleges that this road, which had always been open to traffic, was closed by Wilemina Smith. Chas. T. Smith and Walter Smith in May 1922, and by reason of such act she has been greatly damaged, here the suit for the removal of the fence.

Suit was also entered by Pentz & Pentz on behalf of J. E. Griesemer, of DuBois, against W. J. Milliken and Mrs. Hilliker, alias Mrs. W. A. Milliken, of Traverse City, Mich., for damages to an automobile owned by the plaintiff. The statement filed alleges that on January 8, 1924, the Millikens were driving through DuBois on their way south when their machine collided with the Griesemer auto, badly damaging it, and this suit is brought for the purpose of recovering for the damage done.

After Inventory Sale Green Tags Help You Find BARGAINS

Commencing Monday, January 14th Continuing for One Week

First January Clearance Sale, not Pre-Inventory, but After-Inventory, thereby saving you from 10 to 15 per cent more.

I am offering my entire stock of Furniture—none reserved—at a discount that has never been known to Clearfield people before. I am going to save you from 25 to 30 per cent. All merchandise marked plain with a green tag for your ease in making purchases and seeing prices. In fact you can act as your own salesman; and above all, there is no dead stock in the entire store. Clearfield people know this, for my furniture department was just opened in June of last year. I am going to make this a banner sale—one that will be remembered and will be a yearly event from now on.

Terms of this Sale "Cash"

Could not be otherwise for you are buying your goods at a small margin above cost. I am more interested in letting the Clearfield people know the quality and class of my merchandise than to make money for, once a customer, always a customer.

A few of the articles in the sale. They are too numerous to mention all:

HARLEY-SWANK

Walter Myers Harley of Curwensville and Miss Flora Marie Swank of 1619 Seventh avenue, Juniata, were united in marriage Wednesday evening in the parsonage of St. Paul's Reformed church at Altoona. The ring ceremony of the Reformed church was used, the pastor, Rev. J. K. Wetzel, officiating. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Snyder of 717 Sixth avenue, Juniata. The bridegroom is employed as a truckman on the Tyrone division. After a wedding trip to Buffalo, Erie and Warren, O., Mr. and Mrs. Harley will take up their residence at 1918 Seventh avenue, Juniata.

The Tasmanian Devil.
The Tasmanian devil (Sarcophilus harrisii) is a creature in size like a badger, in appearance like a bear. It is ponderous, powerful, dark-colored and covered with a coat of long fur. It sleeps by day and seeks its prey by night.

Some Mexican Laws.
Certain Mexican states have an interesting law affecting burglars. The culprit in cases of petty larceny is made to repay the plaintiff by working for him so many days, the period varying according to the nature of the theft.

Birthday's Require Happy Gifts

HOPPE HAS FINE CONTROL IN CONTEST

Boston, Jan. 11 (INS).—Willie Hoppe, Champion billiardist, is in a fair way to retain his 18.2 balk line title from the assaults of Welker Cochran, Pacific Coast star. In their first block last night Hoppe won five hundred to 376.

Women
to attract must
Radiate
Health!

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health working silently. Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry—All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs.

But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved-for attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S. since 1926, has been ridding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema, and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks, scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

Man Loses Hope

"For ten years I suffered severely from stomach trouble. The doctors said I had cancer of the stomach and nothing would do but an operation. I took my last round of May's Wonderful Remedy 2½ years ago. Since then I sleep well, eat what I want and feel fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One does well convince or money refunded at all druggists.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. B. C.

Clearfield county boys and girls generally are made of the stuff which produces winners, in any kind of company and all kinds of competition or endeavor, as has been shown many times over this broad land of ours.

The latest Clearfield countian to gain a measure of fame and rise above her fellows is Miss Adda M. Lutz, daughter of William Lutz, of Mt. Joy, and a niece of Mrs. Edith Hipsley of Walnut street. Miss Lutz, a product of our country schools took up stenography and typewriting when she completed her schooling and quickly became a top notcher in that profession. She was employed in law offices locally for a time and held a position at the headquarters here of District No. 2, U. M. W. of A., for a couple of years.

Turning to stenography for a time and seeking further advancement Miss Lutz decided to take up the study of Osteopathy and graduated in that branch of healing. After taking up the work of her profession the young lady decided she was neither stout-muscled or stout-hearted enough to continue long at "punching" rheumatism, dyspepsia and kindred ills out of the generous clientele presenting itself and giving up her practice Miss Lutz returned to her stenography, securing a position in the law offices of one of Philadelphia's leading attorneys.

Miss Lutz employed her idle moments in the study of law and was recently admitted to the legal profession, opening a law office of her own in Philadelphia last week. The Philadelphia Public Ledger of Sunday last carried a two column picture of the new attorney at her desk with the statement that the opening of Miss Lutz's office was the first step toward the formation of an organized women's law office, where fifteen women lawyers of the city plan to have offices. Thus it will be seen that Clearfield leads along one more line.

The Ledger also printed the following interview given them by Miss Lutz, which should prove of interest to her local friends:

Pittsburg Police Looking For Two Gun Men Who Killed A Man In Hold-up

Pittsburgh, Jan. 10 (HNS)—Police today are looking for two holdup men, one perhaps wounded, who late last night, shot and killed John Klein in the barroom of his saloon on the Northside when he resisted their efforts to hold him up.

Klein fell with a bullet in his right temple after a desperate gun battle with the robbers.

Klein's son, hearing the shots, seized an automatic pistol on a table in a rear room and following the slayers of his father, emptied the pistol at them. He says he believes one of the men was wounded.

Needle of Death.
Cleopatra's Needle, on the bank of the Thames, is a monument 68 feet high and weighing 180 tons, originally brought from Heliopolis and presented to the English government by Mohammed Ali.

First Meerschaum Pipe.
The first meerschaum pipe was made 200 years ago by a Hungarian shoemaker who was a clever wood-carver.

BRIGHT LITTLE BOY DIES

Clyde Orrie, son of Alice and Edna Norris, died at his parents' home on the James Norris homestead at 9:30 o'clock Sunday, evening aged 10 years and three months.

He had been a patient sufferer with pneumonia for ten days. All that medical skill and trained nursing could do was done for him but to no avail. During his illness he told his parents he was going to his sisters, who died with the same dread disease, one Orma, aged 7, in 1919, and Thelma in 1921.

His parents, one brother and three sisters are left to mourn his death.

The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 p. m., conducted by Rev. Collins, whose text "Suffer little child on to come unto me" was very appropriate as were the songs so sweetly rendered by the choir of Curwensville Methodist Church.

The little body was tenderly laid to rest in the family plot in Oak Hill cemetery to await the call at the last day when the grave shall give up its dead.

When Medals Were Unknown.
From the fall of the Roman empire until the beginning of the fifteenth century in the west medals were unknown.

Curwensville's Own Calumet

A meeting of the Curwensville Auxiliary to the Children's Aid Society of Clearfield, will be held in the American Legion rooms on Tuesday afternoon, January 15th, at 2 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Harold Moore, a resident of Curwensville some thirty years past, son of Dublin, was a visitor to town relatives for several days this week.

The next regular meeting of Noble Lodge No. 400, F and A M., will be held in their new home in the old John Irvin house east State street. The building has been altered and made into a home that does credit to the organization.

The old Bradford store building, corner of State and Walnut streets, is being overhauled by the new purchasers, Messrs. Bonnell & Holton and it will not be many days before the altered rooms will be put in condition for convenient auto show rooms.

Owing to the absence of a "splitter" at the Penna Hide and Leather company plant, a suspension of work had to be made in several of the departments especially in the yard and harness shop. All branches of this industry will be put in operation by the first of next week.

The Clearfield miller near town has been able to work every other day for the past week. Foreman اظهار that the miller would likely work every day in the week from now on. These some unforeseen change in the present price of coal took place. When No. 19 has not been working this week on account of an accident to some of the machinery, the most favorable time for the miller to work is when the miller is not working. The miller is not working about half the time excepting the Dunrow which has shut down for an indefinite period.

Earl McFadden had the misfortune to smash several fingers on the right hand Monday while engaged at his work at Barrett. Harold Ploom, employed at No. 19 mine had his right hand caught while coupling mine cars Wednesday with the result of the two last fingers being crushed considerably.

Griddle Cakes

Light, tender, golden brown—no other griddle cakes are like those baked with Calumet. No substitute will give you the same result as

CALUMET

The Economy BAKING POWDER

Its purity contributes to the wholesomeness of your bakings. It's pure in the can and pure in the baking.

This superiority—this exceptional quality of Calumet—does not cost you a cent extra—not a cent. In fact it saves you money.

Calumet is the most economical of all Baking Powders. You save when you buy it—moderate in price. You save when you use it—has more than the ordinary leavening strength—therefore you use less. You save materials it is used with—never fails.

Contains only such ingredients as have been approved officially by United States Food Authorities.

The sale of Calumet is over 150% greater than that of any other brand.

Calumet Griddle Cakes

2 level cups flour
2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt

1 level tablespoon sugar
2 level tablespoons melted shortening
2 eggs—yolks
1 1/2 cups milk or water

How to Make Them
Mix dry ingredients in flour. Beat egg yolks and melted shortening in the liquid, add only a part of the liquid—mix until thoroughly smooth. Then add gradually the balance of the liquid until the batter is of the proper consistency. According to the strength of the flour more or less liquid is required. Bake on hot griddle well greased.
Paste in your Recipe Book for future reference.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

SCIENCE HOPES TO COMMUNICATE WITH MARS THIS SUMMER

Planet of Mars Will Be Nearer to Earth This Year Than It Will Be Again In 1975.

GETTING READY

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH (U. S. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 9.—Science may be on the verge of making a great discovery. The thin atmosphere about Mars, coupled with the expected brilliancy of the planet will—in the next eight months—offer astronomers their greatest opportunity of modern times, according to Dr. Coblenz.

"There are two schools in astronomy, one holding that there is animal life on Mars, and the other that conditions are not conducive to life," Dr. Coblenz said. "Perhaps this summer, with Mars at its most brilliant period, something definite will be learned."

Dr. Coblenz cannot believe there is further life on Mars than that of plants, such as are found around the terrestrial polar regions.

"My heat measurements indicate that when the sun is shining on the surface of Mars the climate is warm enough for human life, but because of the rarified atmosphere when the sun goes down the temperature falls far below zero, making impossible life other than is found in the most extreme polar regions."

Dr. Coblenz declared that astronomers this summer will make a close study of the rotation speed of planets and of their physical composition. Considerable importance is attached to the speed with which the heavenly bodies move through space and a fairly accurate estimate may clear up a number of points on which astronomers differ, bureau experts said.

station. In 1924, however, with astronomical instruments perfected to a remarkable degree, it is anticipated that important discoveries will be made.

Seth Thomas Made Monopoly.
The first important clock factory in America was established by Seth Thomas, who long held a practical monopoly of the clock-making industry in the United States. Among the great heirlooms of many American families are old Seth Thomas clocks, and many of them are still ticking away. The earliest ancestor of the clock was the sun dial, and this was supplanted by the water clock, which was invented in Rome about 2,000 years ago. The next improvement was the substitution of a weight for the sand, and about the year 1000 the modern clock was perfected.

JORDAN'S

Little Capes

These capes form the shawl of the most elegant dress of heavy fabric. Just a little gathering on each shoulder adjusts the neckline for the rest of the dress in an instant. The model is suitable in all colors or satin in any of the popular colors and would be especially attractive in velvet. It may be worn with or without a belt according to one's personal taste.

Frilled Dress

This is an apron-front dress in three pieces. The pleated skirt gives it an extra flare. Of course, there is no belt in front because it follows the princess lines. A narrow belt ties in the back. It's a style that deserves two-fold commendation for its smart princess lines and for its use of the princess line.

An Investment—not a purchase

A Thor is like a gilt-edged bond except that it pays bigger returns for the money invested in it. Whether you send your laundry out, have it done at home or do it yourself, Thor will do it as well as it can be done in any other way without any real work on your part, and pay for itself in its first year. Come in, let us give you details.
